B. & L. COMPANY ASSIGNS.

One of the Oldest Concerns in the State Forced to the Wall After Twenty-Five Years.

Henderson, Ky., April 26.—The Henderson Building and Loan Association, one of the oldest in the State, assigned this morning, with the liabilities at about $17,000. The usual deed of assignment was filed, but as no schedule has been filed the assets are not known, though it is thought the assets will nearly approach the liabilities.

The concern has been in existence for twenty-five years, and during that time has been instrumental in erecting some 600 homes. The association owns considerable real estate in the city, some of it valuable. The immediate cause of the assignment is the fact that Mr. Fred Mann, one of the largest creditors, made an imperative demand for $2,500, which the association could not pay, and fearing a suit at the hands of Mr. Mann, in which case others would follow, the assignment was made.

C. C. Henson, President of the concern, was named as assignee. This is the second association to fall here in the last six months.

LOSING WEIGHT.

Is All Right if at the Same Time You Gain Strength.

Some time ago a patient said to me: "Doctor, I don't know whether I am gaining or not; I have lost several pounds in weight since I have been here." I told him he need not feel worried about that, and asked him: "How about your strength?" "I have gained 800 pounds in strength," "That is a great deal better than it would be to gain 50 pounds in weight, or any amount in weight. If you are gaining in strength, never mind about the weight; you are getting rid of effete or residual matter, which is idle matter—dead weight."

I saw a man the other day who weighed 350 pounds, when his normal weight should have been 150 pounds; that was simply 200 pounds dead weight, which was the same as carrying around with him a man weighing 200 pounds—a free boarder who was doing nothing at all.

Fat makes a good overcoat in the winter; it is warm, but it is not indispensable. Strength is the first thing to consider. If you have lost 20 pounds in weight, and at the same time gained in strength, you should consider it an evidence that you are better, because it is an indication that your assimilation has improved, that your stock of stored-up energy is improved; that your nutritive processes are all on a higher level. If your system can do such a hard and important thing as to increase your strength, improve your nerve tone, it can certainly do such a little thing as to lay on fat when it is necessary. In order to do that, simply stop using energy, and that same material will be deposited as fat. You are now using up your fuel instead of storing it. If you find yourself losing in strength, however, you should consult your physician about it.—H. W. Johnson, in Popular Science.

POULTRY AT CHARLESTON.

Exposition Exhibit Will Be Held About Dec. 10.

There will be a well directed department of Live Stock and Poultry at the coming Interstate and West Indian Exposition at Charleston, S. C. From a circular of information the following is taken:

Poultry in the classification of poultry recognition will not only be given to the varieties recognized by the American Poultry Association as standard, but to the other varieties lately produced, and worthy of popular favor in the following classes:

American, Asiatic, Mediterranean, Polish, Hamburg, French, English Games, Game Bantams, Oriental Games, Oriental Bantams and miscellaneous ornamental fowls.

Turkeys, ducks, and geese will be given an extensive classification, and shown as individuals rather than in pairs. The same classification will be given to pigeons, including over fifty varieties.

Pet Stock—Not until a comparatively few years has this great industry come into public notice. At present are very many large establishments engaged in raising pet stock for exhibition and food purposes. Thousands of dollars are annually expended on this kind of stock. In order to place more intelligently before the public a proper notice of this business the Exposition will make this a special feature of the live stock exhibit and classes have been arranged for the different varieties of rabbits and hares, cats and canines, besides many specimens of minor pet stock.

Judges—Awards will be made by competent judges. They may be selected from a list furnished by the various associations, and the greatest care will be exercised in their selection. The rights of every exhibitor will be carefully guarded and high merit alone will win. The constantly increasing interest manifested in the Exposition tends to show that the South Carolina Interstate and West Indian Exposition offers breeders of this country to show to the world what skilful breeding can do towards attaining perfection in the art which the last decade has exemplified in the phenomenal animals produced.

Prizes—A large sum of money has been set aside by the executive committee for cash prizes in all classes of live stock. In addition to this many of the breeders' associations have signified their intention of offering special premiums in the breeding classes. Every animal winning recognition at the hands of the judges will be given an Exposition medal, commensurate with the award, and numerous medals are also to be given to animals of special merit.

Time of Exhibit—The best interest of exhibitors will be consulted and the dates arranged with reference to the other live stock shows. It will begin about the 10th of December, when cattle will be shown for a period of two weeks to be followed by horses, sheep, swine, poultry and pet stock.

A new short serial by Kate Douglas Wiggin, "To run through three months," is the leading feature of the May Scribner. Mrs. Wiggin's delightful humor, revealed so charmingly in the Penelope books, appears in every page of "The Diary of a Goose Girl." It is the story of a beautiful American girl who flees from an attractive but too persistent lover to the seclusion of a goose farm in a quiet English county. The illustrations are by Shepperson, an English artist thoroughly familiar with the region.

OPPOSED SETTLEMENTS.

John C. Calhoun Regarded Them as Unfriendly to the Happiness of the Marriage State.

Just before Calhoun's marriage he had a long talk with the legal counsel of his sweetheart's mother regarding Florida's marriage settlement, and directly thereafter, says George Wolsey Symonds, in the May Ladies' Home Journal, wrote to his prospective mother-in-law on the subject: "From prejudice, or reason, I have always been opposed to marriage settlements. I think experience and reason prove them to be unfriendly to the happiness of the marriage state; and that they tend to produce pecuniary embarrassment. In that state there should be one interest, one happiness and one destiny. That entire confidence, which is reposed by a female in the object of her choice, in placing both her honor and her property in his custody, gives rise to the most sacred and tender regard. A marriage settlement implies a distrust. It is no safety against inevitable accident. It is a guard against the imprudence or misconduct of the husband only. **If successful in life there is no benefit in one; if unsuccessful, what more disagreeable than to have property, but not to be able to pay just debts? It would to me be wretched. It would be splendid poverty."

R. will sell round trip tickets to Louisville, on April 28th to May 11th, inclusive, at rate of one and one third fare, limited to May 13th for return.
